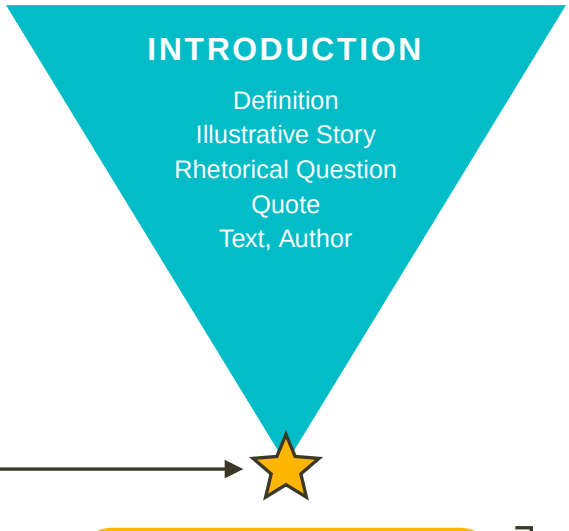
Critical Essay Form

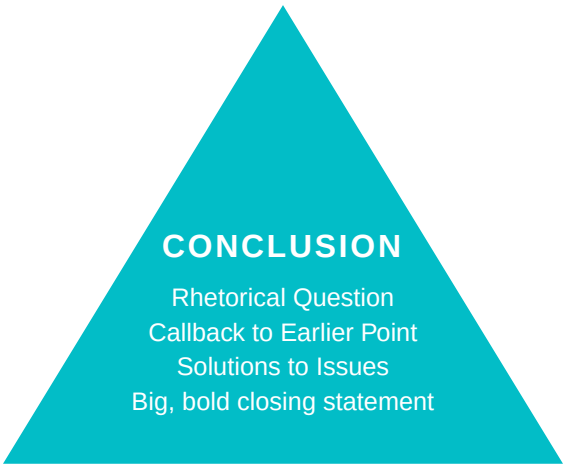
Essays come in many shapes and styles, but this is a great option for organizing a thesis-driven, critical essay.



Introduce your essay somewhat generally, and then narrow your discussion toward your thesis statement.

THESIS STATEMENT

This is maybe the most important part of your essay. A thesis statement is a single sentence that expresses the main idea, focus, or argument of the essay. In this model, it's the last sentence of your intro.

Use your body paragraphs to explore, define, and prove specific points from your thesis statement. There is no rule about how many body paragraphs you should have, but it's good to aim for at least three.


Use your final paragraph to draw conclusions based on everything you just said and to make a graceful exit from the discussion.